INTRODUCTION

On December 12, 2006, following the oral presentation by the attorneys from Proskauer Rose LLP ("Proskauer") and the accountants from Lambrides Lamos & Moulthrop LLP ("Lambrides") to the joint session of the Holy Synod and the Metropolitan Council, Metropolitan Herman appointed Archbishop Job, Bishop Benjamin, Father Vladimir Berzonsky, Father John Reeves, Gregory Nescott, Esquire and Dr. Faith Skordinski to "work together with one another and with the attorneys from Proskauer Rose to bring the investigation to a conclusion in the most appropriate way."¹ On December 19, 2006, Metropolitan Herman appointed Archbishop Job as the chairman of the special investigative committee, now referred to as the Special Commission ("Commission").² On January 12, 2007, Metropolitan Herman again wrote to Archbishop Job, concurring with the Commission's recommendation that Alexandra Makosky, Esquire, serve as its legal counsel and requesting the Commission to complete five specific tasks in fulfilling its general charge.³ The five specific tasks were the following:

- Charge #1. Meet with the attorneys of Proskauer Rose to determine what tasks still need to be concluded by them, with the estimated time and money associated with its completion;
- Charge #2. Meet with the attorneys of Proskauer Rose to review the scope of the investigation documents to help determine what form a written report should take;
- Charge #3. Instruct the attorneys of Proskauer Rose to provide the written report to the [Commission] only;
- Charge #4. Make a recommendation to the Metropolitan Council on whether the preliminary phase of the investigation should be concluded, whether it should be continued by another firm, or whether some others should assume responsibility to conclude the investigation; and
- Charge #5. Make recommendations to the Metropolitan Council on any next steps that the [Commission] deems prudent.⁴

To fulfill the five requests, this preliminary report, which is based upon the investigation and conclusions of Proskauer and Lambrides, is divided into two parts. The first part provides a summary of the allegations of financial misconduct within the Orthodox Church in America ("OCA") and the investigative results of the attorneys and accountants as of March 2007. The second part provides conclusions and recommendations from the Commission regarding the investigation and other steps the Commission believes must be taken.

PART I

Summary of the Allegations

Discretionary Accounts, Personal Credit Card Charges Paid By the OCA, & Misuse of Grant Money. In the early fall of 2005, Protodeacon Eric Wheeler wrote to the Holy Synod and Metropolitan Council alleging financial misconduct within the OCA.⁵ He alleged that between 1998 and 1999, while he was treasurer of the OCA, funds existed outside the normal operating budget and the financial reports provided to the administrative bodies of the OCA.⁶ In addition, he claimed these unrecorded funds were used to "safeguard the church from scandal, cover embarrassing credit card debts incurred by the Metropolitan, provide family members who leached off their relatives with a steady stream of assistance, pay blackmail requests, and provide the means to entertain with dinners, trips, and gifts of cash to visiting foreign dignitaries and 'friends of Syosset.'"⁷ Protodeacon Wheeler alleged that bequests and the special appeals funded these matters during the 1990s.⁸ Furthermore, he alleged the bequests never were reported to any OCA administrative body or provided to the external auditors.⁹ Instead, Father Robert Kondratick deposited the bequests into accounts controlled by either Metropolitan Theodosius or Father Kondratick.¹⁰ Additionally, Protodeacon Wheeler alleged that Father Kondratick regularly raided the temporarily restricted special appeals funds for petty cash in $10,000 increments.¹¹ The special appeals funds included donations from the faithful for the mission, seminary, and charity appeals.¹² Ultimately, the charity and seminary appeals funds showed deficits, and the mission appeal fund was used to pay for regular OCA operating expenses.¹³

According to Protodeacon Wheeler, the OCA submitted a written grant proposal requesting $1.5 million to restore Saint Catherine's Representation Church in Moscow, Russia and to create a conference and communications center.¹⁴ The grant proposal did not request money for discretionary needs, yet Protodeacon Wheeler alleged that this is how the funds were used.¹⁵ In June 1995, the grant proposal was approved, and the OCA received its first $250,000 payment.¹⁶ Protodeacon Wheeler alleged that while reports of the grant money appeared to be detailed, the same financial mismanagement the OCA was experiencing with its accounts existed with the grant money.¹⁷ Protodeacon Wheeler estimated the money donated from this grant and subsequent grants was approximately $3 to $5 million with "probably half" of the off-the-books grant money deposited in the Saint Sergius Chapel Fund at the Roslyn Savings Bank.¹⁸ In addition, Protodeacon Wheeler alleged the OCA paid for Father Kondratick's personal credit card bills from the budgeted External Affairs line item with vague notations on the invoices.¹⁹ He also alleged that during his years as treasurer (1996-1999),²⁰ Metropolitan Theodosius and Father Kondratick maintained discretionary accounts that were disproportionate to the annual operating budget of the OCA.²¹

No Unqualified Audits. In September 1997, the financial records for the OCA reflected that an organization had donated $1 million, but an unknown amount of money also was received and not recorded in the OCA's financial records.²² An unqualified independent audit could not be produced for the OCA for 1997 and 1998 because of the refusal to include the discretionary accounts in OCA reports.²³ An independent audit would not permit funds to be maintained off the books, requiring the officers of the OCA to provide written confirmation that all funds have been presented for review.²⁴

Whistleblowing, Retaining of Personal Defense Attorneys, & the Firing of Protodeacon Wheeler as Treasurer. In December 1998 and again in February 1999, Protodeacon Wheeler orally expressed his concerns to Metropolitan Theodosius about the OCA's financial reporting issues.²⁵ No action was taken on either occasion.²⁶ On June 20, 1999, Protodeacon Wheeler expressed his concerns to Lambrides, the OCA's external auditors.²⁷ Within a week of a meeting where Lambrides raised the issue of the discretionary accounts, Metropolitan Theodosius and Father Kondratick retained their own personal lawyers, who were paid for their services from the discretionary accounts.²⁸ The Metropolitan's lawyers immediately prepared the resolution that the Holy Synod signed in July 1999 at the All-American Council, denying any type of audit of the Metropolitan's discretionary account.²⁹ According to Protodeacon Wheeler, Richard Rock, with the assistance of Father Kondratick, constructed an entire cover-up paper trail for the discretionary account from 1996 through 1999.³⁰ In September of 1999, Protodeacon Wheeler was released from employment as treasurer of the OCA.³¹ On September 21, 1999, in a meeting held at South Canaan, Pennsylvania, Protodeacon Wheeler once again expressed his concerns about the lack of financial transparency to acting treasurer, Archbishop Herman, and Father Kondratick.³²

Summary of the Investigation

The Accounting Firm & the Law Firm. On January 3 and March 10, 2006, the accounting firm that had conducted the OCA's external audits prior to 1999, Lambrides, was asked to audit the OCA's financial accounts for 2004³³ and to examine the disposition of monies collected through OCA appeals from 2001 through 2005,³⁴ respectively. On March 11, 2006, Father Paul Kucynda signed an engagement letter addressed to Metropolitan Herman that retained Proskauer on behalf of the OCA to investigate the allegations of financial misconduct in the OCA,³⁵ although this act appears to be in violation of the Statute of the OCA, Article V, Sections 4(b), (c), (k), and (l), which requires the action of the Metropolitan Council. After reviewing documents and interviewing witnesses, Proskauer and Lambrides concluded with a reasonable degree of professional certainty that many of the allegations relating to the financial misconduct are well-founded. Specifically, Proskauer and Lambrides have established the following facts regarding the special appeals funds and cash withdrawals, credit card reimbursements, discretionary accounts, grant money, and Martin Drive property.³⁶

Special Appeals Funds & Cash Withdrawals. In the spring of 2006, Lambrides analyzed the special appeals funds for the years 2001 through 2005 and found that $2,011,659 was disbursed from these funds during that period.³⁷ Lambrides examined the available documentation for $881,000 and found practically no third-party support or verification for the transactions.³⁸ Additionally, Lambrides made the following discoveries:

1. During the years 2001 through 2005, $1,019,071.35 was withdrawn in cash from the OCA's operating checking account, with $575,300 of the approximately $1 million withdrawn in cash taken from the special appeals funds.³⁹ Ten OCA employees cashed the checks.⁴⁰ Lambrides spoke with four employees who had withdrawn this cash, and each person stated that upon returning from the bank, he/she gave the cash directly to Father Kondratick.⁴¹ The OCA records lacked any supporting documentation and reflected only general information about the purposes of these numerous cash withdrawals.⁴² Lambrides met five or six times with Father Kondratick to obtain documentation for the use of these cash withdrawals, during which times Father Kondratick provided only his handwritten notes regarding some of the withdrawals.⁴³ For example, on April 5, 2006, Father Kondratick was able to provide explanations with notations on the photocopies of the petty cash receipts for $164,105 of the $423,750.60 in cash withdrawals for 2001, leaving $259,645.60 in cash disbursements without any explanation as to how the money was spent.⁴⁴ Furthermore, Father Kondratick did not produce any corroborating evidence from third parties for any of the disbursed cash, nor did he provide the name of a single individual or parish to whom he allegedly had given any of the withdrawn cash for charitable funds, including $176,500 of income designated by donors for victims in the 9/11 special appeal.⁴⁵

2. After examining the check and wire disbursements from the appeals, from 2001 through 2005, Lambrides found:

(a) $305,729 of appeals distributions that the accountants requested to examine had inadequate documentation;

(b) $5,608.36 of American Express charges for Father Kondratick's son, Robert, were charged as a charitable distribution; and

(c) $12,120 was wired by the OCA on December 9, 2003 to Saint Catherine's in Moscow for the Christmas Stocking Project. These funds were not used for the Christmas Stocking Project, but instead were used by Father Kondratick for his travel expenses in Russia.⁴⁶

Proskauer's investigation also revealed other troubling events related to the charity appeals. For example, in November 2004, the OCA sent $85,000 to Saint Catherine's in Moscow, which was a portion of the money raised for the victims of the Beslan tragedy. A videotape made of a conversation between Father Kondratick and Father Zacchaeus (Wood), dean of Saint Catherine's, confirms that Father Kondratick directed Father Zacchaeus not to distribute all of the money to the Beslan charities. Rather, Father Kondratick expected half of the money ($42,500) to be returned to him when he arrived in Russia. Father Kondratick stated that he needed this money to pay for an OCA delegation's travel expenses to Russia. When Father Kondratick arrived in Russia and learned that "his" $42,500 was distributed to the Beslan charities, he became upset and insisted that Father Zacchaeus pay for the OCA delegation's expenses.⁴⁷ This request for additional money was especially troubling because Father Kondratick already had requested and received $12,000⁴⁸ from the 2004 Christmas Stocking Project money to pay the hotel, food, and car expenses while he was in Russia.⁴⁹ The cover letter to Patriarch Aleksy that was to have accompanied the $12,000 donation to Russia's children in 2004 was found crumpled up in the trash can by an altar server at Saint Catherine's.⁵⁰

Personal Credit Card Charges Paid By the OCA. Proskauer determined that from 1999 through 2005, Father Kondratick submitted and was paid approximately $2 million on 20 personal and two corporate credit cards, for which the OCA paid the annual fees. While a number of these charges, as well as others in 1996 and 1997, appeared to be related to OCA business, a significant number of charges appeared to relate to personal travel to and lodging expenses for places including Aruba and Las Vegas.⁵¹ The OCA records reflect that month after month, Father Kondratick submitted charges for ordinary monthly living expenses of the Kondratick family members such as groceries, wine, newspaper and magazine subscriptions, cable bills, clothes, and shoes, including charges to a bridal shoe store.⁵² Father Kondratick's written explanation for payment of these expenses was principally "charity."⁵³ Many times Father Kondratick submitted the entire credit card bill for payment with only a note in the margin indicating to what OCA account it should be charged.⁵⁴ "Charity" and "External Affairs" were the two most commonly noted accounts.⁵⁵ He also sought and the OCA paid for items such as tanning salon charges,⁵⁶ $700 at a hair salon,⁵⁷ and a $3,000 purchase by Father Kondratick's son at a jewelry store in 1996.⁵⁸ Even though Father Kondratick occasionally noted the items were "personal," the comptroller stated that Father Kondratick rarely ever repaid these sums. The majority of the payment requests lacked any documentation or original receipts to support the purchases and did not comply with common business practice and the stringent Internal Revenue Service regulations.⁵⁹ As of March 16, 2006, the date Father Kondratick was asked to step down as chancellor, Proskauer determined that he owes the OCA at least $137,041.28 in acknowledged personal credit card charges.

Discretionary Accounts. During its investigation, Proskauer discovered three discretionary accounts formerly maintained at Chase Bank between at least February 1996 and August 2002 that were in the name of the OCA, but were controlled exclusively by Metropolitan Theodosius and/or Father Kondratick. It has not been determined exactly when these accounts were opened. The accounts included: (1) a business money market account entitled "The Metropolitan's Fund," to which apparently only Metropolitan Theodosius had access; (2) a business checking account entitled "Special Account," for which both Metropolitan Theodosius and Father Kondratick signed checks; and (3) a business checking account entitled "Discretionary Account c/o Robert Kondratick."⁶⁰ Although these three accounts were in the name of the OCA with the OCA's post office box address,⁶¹ Father Kondratick directed the comptroller, Father Stavros Strikis, not to open any of these statements.⁶²

From the partial records Proskauer was able to obtain, Proskauer found that $1,077,000 was deposited into the three accounts, with $227,943 of the total amount coming from the OCA's operating account and being deposited into Father Kondratick's discretionary account. The $227,943 was almost entirely spent within a one-year period between February 1996 and February 1997. OCA records reflect only general explanations for these transfers, such as "charity distribution" and "patriarch support." The remaining balance of $850,000 was deposited into the other two discretionary accounts. Some of the money in these two accounts was used as follows: (a) approximately $125,000 paid for Metropolitan Theodosius' and Father Kondratick's personal lawyers, accountants, and other consultants relating to the opposition of auditing the Metropolitan's discretionary account in 1999;⁶³ (b) approximately $50,000 paid for Father Kondratick's personal credit cards;⁶⁴ and (c) $195,000 was withdrawn in cash.

On June 12, 2006, Proskauer attempted to question Father Kondratick about the discretionary accounts, but his attorney objected and told Father Kondratick not to answer the questions. Father Kondratick's attorney's explanation for refusing to allow his client to answer these questions was that "there were canonical prohibitions against reopening matters or issues that were addressed and then closed during the prior administration of Metropolitan Theodosius."⁶⁵ He explained that because the allegations were resolved in 1999 by Metropolitan Theodosius and the Holy Synod, "Metropolitan Herman ha[d] no right to reopen it."⁶⁶

In 1999, when Lambrides was attempting to complete the audit of the financial statements of the OCA for 1998, it learned of the unreported discretionary accounts and wrote to officers and internal auditors of the OCA that the financial report could not be completed because (1) the financial statements prepared by the Church for audit were not presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and did not include all assets and liabilities under the organization's control; (2) the Church had not made available all financial records and related data; and (3) there were material transactions that had not been properly recorded in the accounting records underlying the financial statements.⁶⁷ The OCA central administration officers failed to cooperate with Lambrides, and the audit was never certified.⁶⁸ Then, from 1999 through 2004, a different accounting firm, Konsen & Hostelly LLP, located in Independence, Ohio provided the OCA with compilation reports, which are nothing more than a listing of expenses and deposits to the accounts as represented by the officers of the OCA.⁶⁹

Grant Money. Proskauer determined that between 1992 and 1999, at least $3,575,000 in grant money was given to the OCA. Only $1.4 million of the $3.5 million, however, was deposited into the OCA's general operating account. The remaining $2,175,000 apparently was deposited into the discretionary accounts controlled by Metropolitan Theodosius and Father Kondratick. Of the $1.4 million deposited into the OCA's operating account, valid documentation exists for only $217,000.

The OCA reported to the grant donors for 1995 through 1997 that it sent $348,000 to Saint Catherine's in Moscow and $614,000 to the Russian Orthodox Church.⁷⁰ The OCA's reports claim that the remaining $38,000 was used for "plan oversight," which allegedly covered travel, lodging, and meeting costs.⁷¹ None of the OCA reports to the donor, however, matches the records produced by Father Daniel Hubiak, who was dean of Saint Catherine's during that time. Indeed, Father Hubiak's detailed records indicate that only $217,000 was sent to Saint Catherine's between 1995 and 1997.⁷² The OCA has no records to verify whether $614,000 was donated to the Russian Orthodox Church.

Martin Drive Property. In the early 1990s, the OCA purchased property located at 216 Martin Drive, Syosset, New York, which is where Father Kondratick lived until his move to Florida in December 2006. Father Kondratick received a housing allowance while living in this property. The Metropolitan Council did not approve the purchase of this residence, as required by the OCA Statute. Renovations were made shortly after the purchase, which also apparently were not approved by the Metropolitan Council. On April 19, 2002, Father Kondratick presented a document to the Administrative Committee of the OCA that indicated he was owed money for the house improvements.⁷³ The files provided by Father Kondratick reflect that the cost of the improvements was approximately $110,000, but he provided no evidence of how or by whom these improvements were paid.

On October 2, 2006, Father Kondratick and his wife, Elizabeth, initiated a lawsuit against the OCA and seven individuals, alleging that the Kondraticks were owed $250,000, plus interest, for house improvements they made to the Martin Drive property.⁷⁴ Less than two weeks after serving the OCA with the complaint, Father Kondratick withdrew his lawsuit without explanation.⁷⁵ On December 13, 2006, the Metropolitan Council voted to sell the Martin Drive property.⁷⁶ Currently, the property is for sale through a Long Island real estate agent.

PART II

Conclusion

After receiving and reviewing requested documentation from Proskauer in early January 2007, the Commission met in Parma, Ohio for ten hours on January 24, 2007. Subsequently, on February 5 and 6, 2007, the Commission met in East Norwich, New York for over twelve of work. From December 2006 through March 2007, the Commission engaged in six telephone conference calls.

In February 2007, the Commission met face-to-face for over five hours with Lambrides and participated in a two-hour telephone conference call with Proskauer. During these sessions, Lambrides and Proskauer provided answers to specific questions of the Commission members and clarified details relating to the investigation of the financial misconduct allegations.

Based upon the investigative work to date, the conclusion of the experts retained for the OCA seems to validate Protodeacon Wheeler's observation that "too few people had and continue to have too much control over too much money with no overseeing body to affect reform."⁷⁷ The OCA Statute, which serves as the OCA's legally binding rules and regulations within the state of New York, appears to have been disregarded for at least the past fifteen years by the entire central administration of the OCA, as well as all governing bodies. The Commission is in agreement with Lambrides, who characterized the OCA as being "a system out of control." As Protodeacon Wheeler succinctly stated, there was "a total abuse of power with no concern for accounting practice nor aspiration for accountability both internal and external."⁷⁸

In summary, the following facts are now conclusively established regarding the preliminary phase of the investigation:

- Between 2001 through 2005, $1,019,071.35 was withdrawn in cash from the OCA's operating checking account and given directly to Father Kondratick. The OCA records lack any supporting documentation and reflect only general information about the purposes of these cash withdrawals.
- $575,300 of the approximately one million dollars withdrawn in cash was taken from the special appeals funds and given to Father Kondratick, who has been unable to provide the name of one person or parish who received any of this cash.
- Despite meeting face-to-face five or six times with the Lambrides accountants, Father Kondratick could not provide Lambrides with the name of one 9/11 victim or parish who received any of the $176,500 allegedly distributed.
- The check and wire disbursement from the appeals, from 2001 through 2005, show American Express charges of $5,608.36 for Father Kondratick's son, Robert, as a charitable distribution.
- In December 2003, Father Kondratick used for travel expenses in Russia $12,120 that was intended for the Christmas Stocking Project.
- In December 2004, Father Kondratick used for travel expenses in Russia $12,000 that was intended for the Christmas Stocking Project.
- A videotape captured Father Kondratick chastising Father Zacchaeus for distributing all of the $85,000 in Beslan charity appeal money sent to Saint Catherine's in November 2004 instead of holding half of the money for Father Kondratick, who intended to use the $42,500 to pay for the OCA delegation's Russian trip expenses.
- From 1999 through 2005, the OCA paid approximately $2 million in Kondratick family members' credit card charges, which covered 20 personal credit cards and two corporate credit cards. The majority of the credit card charges lacked any documentation or original receipts to support the purchases by the OCA.
- Credit card charges for which the OCA paid Father Kondratick include personal travel to and lodging expenses for places including Aruba and Las Vegas, and his family members' ordinary monthly living expenses such as groceries, wine, newspaper and magazine subscriptions, cable bills, clothes, and shoes.

Other Kondratick family credit card charges for which the OCA paid included: tanning salons; a $700 hair salon charge; and a $3,000 purchase by Father Kondratick's son at a jewelry store.

- Father Kondratick still owes the OCA at least $137,000 in acknowledged personal credit card charges.
- From at least February 1996 through August 2002, Metropolitan Theodosius and Father Kondratick controlled three discretionary accounts into which at least $1,077,000 was deposited.
- $227,943 was deposited into Father Kondratick's discretionary account from the OCA's operating account and was almost entirely spent between February 1996 and February 1997.
- No less than $850,000 was deposited into the two other discretionary accounts and spent on such things as Metropolitan Theodosius's and Father Kondratick's personal lawyers, accountants, and other consultants relating to the opposition of auditing the discretionary funds in 1999 ($125,000), Father Kondratick's personal credit cards ($50,000), and withdrawals in cash ($195,000).

From 1992 through 1999, at least $3.5 million was donated to the OCA for Saint Catherine's and the Russian Orthodox Church. Only $1.4 million was deposited into the OCA's general operating account. The remaining $2.1 million appears to have been deposited into the discretionary accounts controlled by Metropolitan Theodosius and Father Kondratick.

- Of the $1.4 million deposited into the Church's operating accounts, the OCA has valid supporting documentation for only approximately $217,000.
- In September 2006, Father Kondratick and his wife sued the OCA and other individuals, alleging that they were owed $250,000, plus interest, for renovations allegedly costing $110,000 they made to a house deeded to the OCA, but in which they lived while receiving a housing allowance.

Recommendations

In accordance with Metropolitan Herman's five charges to the Commission, the Commission offers its recommendations as follows:

Charge #1. Meet with the attorneys of Proskauer Rose to determine what tasks still need to be concluded by them, with the estimated time and money associated with its completion.

Charge #2. Meet with the attorneys of Proskauer Rose to review the scope of the investigation documents to help determine what form a written report should take.

Charge #3. Instruct the attorneys of Proskauer Rose to provide the written report to the [Commission] only.

The three charges relating to Proskauer are combined together because the focus of these charges relates to Proskauer's investigation. After several unsuccessful attempts to schedule a meeting with Proskauer, on February 22, 2007, the Commission participated in a telephone conference call with the Proskauer attorneys who conducted the investigation on behalf of the OCA. Proskauer believes that it has no additional tasks to be completed at this time. Proskauer recommended, however, that Lambrides accomplish the following two tasks: (1) complete an audit of the remaining $700,000 in disbursements from the 2001-2005 special appeals money, and (2) investigate the recorded home-improvement expenses for the 216 Martin Drive property.

After discussing these two tasks with the Lambrides accountants, the Commission does not recommend that they be completed at this time.

The Commission requested a written report from Proskauer that would provide an index of documents reviewed and conclusions reached thus far. In early January 2007, the Commission received from Proskauer a draft report summarizing its work and conclusions to date, which is incorporated into this report.

Charge #4. Make a recommendation to the Metropolitan Council on whether the preliminary phase of the investigation should be concluded, whether it should be continued by another firm, or whether some others should assume responsibility to conclude the investigation.

Assuming that “preliminary phase” refers to the investigation conducted by Proskauer for the past year, the Commission believes that it should be concluded. This does not mean, however, that the Commission believes the investigation is complete. On the contrary, several key questions remain to be answered, and the Commission recommends that it assume the oversight management for the completion of the investigation. In a statement sent to the members of the Metropolitan Council on January 31, 2007, the Commission outlined its agreement as to some of the questions that need to be answered before a final report of the investigation can be made to the Church.⁷⁹

The Commission continues to believe that the restoration of trust must be the primary goal of the investigation. The Commission also agrees that upon completion of the investigation, a written report to the Church must be made, as expeditiously as possible. The Commission additionally agrees that the investigation must consider not only the legal implications, but also the moral and ethical dimensions of what has occurred. It must be noted that there have been attempts made to interfere with the work of the Commission, from both inside and outside the Church. These attempts have been resisted by the Commission.

The Commission has discussed several steps to take to complete the investigation:

- The Commission has requested to review the reports and minutes of meetings of the Church’s administrative components – including the Metropolitan Council, the Holy Synod, the Administrative Committee, the Internal Audit Committee, and the Treasurer – from 1987 through 2005.
- The Commission has now viewed the videotape recorded in Moscow in 2004, discussed in Part I, above, and has requested that a transcript of that tape be prepared.
- The Commission acknowledges the need for additional interviews to be conducted, and has discussed the names of potential interviewees.
- The Commission has requested and continues to seek the release of additional documents and information requested from Proskauer.

Aware that New York state law provides that Metropolitan Council members fulfill their duty of care when (1) authorizing a committee to work in accordance with the bylaws and (2) relying upon information, opinions, reports, or statements prepared and presented by experts within their respective fields of competence,⁸⁰ the Commission recommends the following resolution be approved during the March 2007 Metropolitan Council meeting:

Whereas according to the Statute of the Orthodox Church in America, Article V, Section 4(k) and (l), the Metropolitan Council “appoints officers and committees on matters within its competence” and “initiates, prosecutes, and defends all legal matters affecting the interest of the Church”;

Therefore, be it resolved, that the Metropolitan Council endorses the appointment of Archbishop Job, Bishop Benjamin, Father Vladimir Berzonsky, Father John Reeves, Gregory Nescott, and Dr. Faith Skordinski to serve on a Special Commission continuing the investigation begun by Proskauer Rose, and authorizes the Special Commission to bring the investigation to a conclusion in the most appropriate way;

Be it further resolved that the Metropolitan Council recognizes the appointment of Alexandra Makosky, Esquire, as legal counsel to the Special Commission;

Be it further resolved that the work of the Special Commission be independent and free of interference from anyone outside the Special Commission;

Be it further resolved that the Special Commission provide a final written report of its investigation to the Holy Synod and the Metropolitan Council as soon as possible, but no later than the Fall of 2007.

Charge #5. Make recommendations to the Metropolitan Council on any next steps that the [Commission] deems prudent.

The Commission recommends the following steps be taken:

Recommendations for the Holy Synod

- (1) Immediate suspension of Father Kondratich by his bishop. Based upon the facts established thus far, failure to remove him immediately from access to any and all sources of Church funds demonstrates irresponsibility with regard to fiduciary duties on behalf of the Holy Synod and Metropolitan Council and significantly increases the liability risks of the OCA.
- (2) Call Metropolitan Theodosius before the Holy Synod to answer questions relating to his responsibilities and duty of care for the OCA while serving as Metropolitan of the OCA.
- (3) Confirm for the record that there are no prohibitions against investigating the discretionary accounts.

Recommendations for the Metropolitan Council

- (4) Demand Father Kondratich repay the $137,000 of acknowledged personal credit card debt to the OCA.⁸¹
- (5) Consider whether the money spent by Metropolitan Theodosius and Father Kondratich for personal attorneys, accountants, and other professionals be repaid to the OCA.
- (6) Should the resolution pass under Charge 4, above, determine and authorize a working budget for the Special Commission to bring its work to completion.

(7) Appoint Deacon John Zarras, OCA Transition Officer, be responsible for overseeing the proper filing and securing of OCA documents and records, especially those maintained by the current comptroller.

(8) Release this entire written report to the Holy Synod, including the endnotes and exhibits; release this report with the endnotes, but not the exhibits, to the church-at-large using the OCA's web page.

(9) Authorize Lambrides to conduct a special-purpose audit for 2006, which would include reviewing the appeals, endowment funds, and trust funds.

(10) Require the treasurer to submit the invoices of Proskauer to the Special Commission for review and comments before paying them, even if the amount is within the authorized budget for 2006-2007.

⁸¹ By making this recommendation, the Commission is not suggesting in any way that this is all of the money that Father Kondratick owes the OCA. Because the OCA paid for the Kondratick's acknowledged personal charges, however, and Father Kondratick has not yet repaid the OCA, this amount must be recouped along with all other monies he owes the OCA.

SUMMARY REPORT of the preliminary report of the first Special Investigative Committee and the proceedings of the Spiritual Court for Robert Kondratick

[Note: This Report contains almost all of the content of the preliminary report, which was prepared by the first Special Investigative Committee, chaired by Archbishop Job. That was the report presented to the Holy Synod and Metropolitan Council in March, 2007. Also within this Summary Report are highlights of the proceedings and the judgment of the Spiritual Court, issued on July 19, 2007. This Report in no way represents the work of the second Special Investigative Committee, which is chaired by Bishop Benjamin and which is in the midst of their work.]

In the fall of 2005, allegations were made about financial misconduct within the Orthodox Church in America (OCA). To investigate the allegations, the law firm of Proskauer Rose LLP was retained on behalf of the OCA. The accounting firm of Lambrides Lamos & Moulthrop LLP also was retained to audit the OCA's financial accounts for 2004 and to examine the disposition of monies collected through OCA appeals from 2001 through 2005.

In December 2006, during the joint meeting of the Holy Synod and the Metropolitan Council, Metropolitan HERMAN appointed a Special Committee "to work with the attorneys from Proskauer Rose and to bring the investigation to a conclusion in the most appropriate way." The Special Committee was composed of Archbishop Job, Bishop Benjamin, Fr. Vladimir Berzonsky, Fr. John Reeves, Gregory Nescott and Dr. Faith Skordinski.

In March 2007, the Special Committee presented its preliminary report to both the Holy Synod of Bishops and the Metropolitan Council. Having worked with the attorneys at Proskauer Rose LLP and the accountants at Lambrides Lamos & Moulthrop LLP, the Special Committee reported those professionals' observations, provided below, which became the basis of the accusations against the former Chancellor, Robert S. Kondratick.

- Between 2001 through 2005, over $1,000,000.00 was withdrawn in cash from the operating checking account of the OCA and given directly to Robert Kondratick. The OCA records lack any supporting documentation to indicate how the cash was spent and for what purposes.
- $575,300 of the approximately one million dollars withdrawn in cash was taken from the special appeals funds and given to Robert Kondratick, who has been unable to provide the name of one person or parish who received any of this cash.
- Despite meeting face-to-face five or six times with the accountants from Lambrides, Robert Kondratick could not provide them with the name of one 9/11 victim or parish who received any of the $176,500 allegedly distributed.
- An audit of the check and wire disbursement from the special appeals funds, from 2001 through 2005, shows American Express charges of some $5,600.00 for a member of the Kondratick family, designated by Robert Kondratick as a charitable distribution.

- In December 2004, Robert Kondratick used for travel expenses in Russia $12,000 that was raised and intended for the Christmas Stocking Project.
- From 1999 through 2005, the OCA paid not less than $1.2 million in Kondratick family members' credit card charges, which covered no less than 22 credit cards. The majority of the credit card charges lack any documentation or original receipts to support the purchases by the OCA. To date, Robert Kondratick has failed to provide the OCA with receipts of any kind to support the expenditures of more than $1,100,000.¹
- Credit card charges for which the OCA paid Robert Kondratick include personal travel to and lodging expenses for places including Aruba and Las Vegas, tanning and hair salon charges, jewelry store purchases, and his family members' ordinary monthly living expenses such as groceries, wine, newspaper and magazine subscriptions, cable bills, clothes, and shoes.
- Robert Kondratick still owes the OCA at least $137,000 in acknowledged personal credit card charges.
- From at least February 1996 through August 2002, Metropolitan Theodosius and Robert Kondratick controlled three discretionary accounts under the name of the OCA, into which at least $1,077,000 was deposited; the Metropolitan's account, a joint account whose signatories were Robert Kondratick and Metropolitan Theodosius, and an account for which Robert Kondratick was the signatory. Other than the Metropolitan's account, the very existence of the discretionary accounts was undisclosed to internal and external auditors.
- $227,943 was deposited into Robert Kondratick's discretionary account from the operating account of the OCA and was spent almost entirely between February 1996 and February 1997.
- No less than $850,000 was deposited into the two other discretionary accounts and spent on such things as Metropolitan Theodosius' and Robert Kondratick's personal lawyers, accountants, and other consultants relating to their opposition of auditing the discretionary funds in 1999 ($125,000), Robert Kondratick's personal credit cards ($50,000), and withdrawals in cash ($195,000).
- In 1999, when the accountants from Lambrides were attempting to complete the audit of the financial statements of the OCA for 1998, they learned of the unreported discretionary accounts and wrote to officers and internal auditors of the OCA that the financial report could not be completed because (1) the financial statements prepared by the Church for audit were not presented in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles and did not include all assets and liabilities under the organization's control; (2) the OCA had not made available all financial records and related data; and (3) there were material transactions that had not been properly recorded in the accounting records underlying the financial statements. Because the OCA central administration officers failed to cooperate with Lambrides, the audit was never certified. Then, from 1999 through 2004, a different accounting firm, Konsen & Hostelly LLP, located in Independence, Ohio provided the OCA with compilation reports, which are nothing more than a listing of expenses and deposits to the accounts as represented by the officers of the OCA.

- On June 12, 2006, the lawyers for the OCA unsuccessfully attempted to obtain answers relating to these discretionary accounts by questioning Robert Kondratick, who refused to answer the questions on canonical grounds.
- In September 2006, Robert Kondratick and his wife sued the OCA and other individuals, alleging that they were owed $250,000, plus interest, for renovations allegedly costing $110,000 they made to a house deeded to the OCA, but in which they lived while receiving a housing allowance. The renovations were made shortly after the purchase, but apparently were not approved by the Metropolitan Council. The files provided by Father Kondratick did not indicate how or by whom these improvements were paid.

Upon hearing and discussing the report of the Special Committee, the Metropolitan Council and Holy Synod of Bishops endorsed several recommendations on how to proceed. The first recommendation was the following:

Immediate suspension of Father Kondratick by his bishop. Based upon the facts established thus far, failure to remove him immediately from access to any and all sources of Church funds demonstrates irresponsibility with regard to fiduciary duties on behalf of the Holy Synod and Metropolitan Council and significantly increases the liability risks of the OCA.

In April 2007, Faith Skordinski, as a member of both the Metropolitan Council and the Special Committee, submitted written accusations against Father Kondratick. As the OCA Statute allows, Metropolitan HERMAN temporarily suspended Robert Kondratick and selected a spiritual court composed of the following people: Archbishop Nathaniel, presiding as a non-voting member; Fr. Michael Dahulich; Fr. John Erickson; Fr. David Garretson; and Fr. Joseph Lickwar ("Spiritual Court"). The Spiritual Court unanimously determined that the evidence presented was sufficient to justify a trial where Robert Kondratick would have to answer the charges against him. The Spiritual Court informed Metropolitan HERMAN of its finding and he promptly issued and had served on Robert Kondratick a summons for his appearance at a spiritual court trial. On April 30, 2007, Robert Kondratick requested an extension of time to prepare for the trial, which the Spiritual Court granted.

On June 11, 2007, the trial commenced. Robert Kondratick was present and represented by his attorney, Harry Kutner, and Monk James Silver. The Spiritual Court did not report to Metropolitan HERMAN the events that unfolded that day until it presented its formal report of the trial. The report stated the following:

The Court granted Mr. Kutner's request to be heard on objections by the Accused to certain preliminary matters. Mr. Kutner objected to Rule 3 of the Procedural Guidelines which did not permit a transcript of the proceedings. In addition, Mr. Kutner mentioned other issues of concern such as the fact that the Court was comprised of judges who were in the Accused's opinion, biased. After hearing substantial arguments from the Accused and his attorney, the Court denied the Accused's demand that a transcript be kept and denied his request to have the Court reconstituted. After nearly one hour of continued discussions, the Accused requested that the Trial be suspended and that he be given the right to appeal the denial of his requests and other procedural issues, to the Holy Synod at its next regular session in the fall of 2007. The Court denied the Accused's request since it was not a statutorily permitted right of the Accused, was viewed as an improper attempt to delay the proceedings, and would, if granted, violate Article XI, § 6(e) of the Statute ["The Holy Synod shall never act as a court of first instance in cases which are within the competence of Diocesan Courts."]. The Accused informed the Court that he would not proceed with his defense unless his demands were met. The Court requested the Accused to reconsider his position and warned him that the trial had been convened, that leaving would be viewed by the Court as a default and that the Court could proceed in his absence. The Accused refused to continue his defense and he and his representatives left the proceedings.

After due deliberation, the Spiritual Court found Robert Kondratick to be in default and proceeded with the trial, which included over 18 hours of live testimony over two days (June 11, 2007 and July 6, 2007) from ten witnesses (Helen Cavounis, Father Paul Kucynda, Mr. Stephen Lamos, CPA, Fr. Dimitri Oselinsky, Fr. Steven Strikis, Mr. Robert H. Taylor, CPA, Metropolitan Theodosius, Deacon Eric Wheeler, Fr. Zacchaeus (Wood), and Deacon John Zarras), as well as documentary evidence. The proceedings closed on July 6, 2007.

On July 19, 2007 the Spiritual Court issued the following judgment with a written report:

[I]t is the Judgment of the Court that the Accused, Protopresbyter Robert S. Kondratick, committed theft of Church funds, alienated Church funds for his personal use, repeatedly refused to cooperate with those who were charged with giving an accounting of Church funds, actively concealed his actions, refused to cooperate with this Court and thus has brought shame and reproach to the priesthood all in violation of the cited canons, scriptural commands, and the oath that he took upon being ordained into the priesthood.

The Court recommended that the suspended priest, Fr. Robert Kondratick, be permanently deposed from all sacred functions of the priesthood and that his name be removed immediately from the rolls of the clergy of the OCA. On July 31, 2007, the Holy Synod of Bishops, after being presented with the report of the Court, accepted the recommendation and confirmed the final deposition (defrocking) of Fr. Kondratick, which was in conformance with the Statute of the OCA.

On August 26, 2007, Robert Kondratick wrote to Archbishop Seraphim, as Secretary of the Holy Synod of Bishops, stating that he wished to appeal his deposition. On October 16, 2007, he presented the Holy Synod with his appeal and an appended packet of documents. After careful review of these documents, the Holy Synod met in special session on December 13, 2007. Giving due deliberation to the appeal, the Holy Synod concluded that the decision to depose Robert Kondratick would remain in effect.

Archimandrite Zacchæus (Wood), Rector
 Dear Archimandrite Zacchæus,

I want to congratulate you on the new Iconostasis and the new floor at St Catherine's Church, and also on the very pleasant Primatial Liturgy in which we all participated, celebrating the 10th Anniversary of the Representation there. Thank you for having invited members of the Holy Synod to participate in this celebration, something which His Beatitude did bless. Thank you also for the privately given gift of the panagia.

I take this opportunity to call your attention to some matters. During the course of these celebrations, you called aside the three episcopal members of the Delegation, in order to speak of certain alleged faults of the Chancellor and his administration. It is perhaps useful that we be aware of your opinion, but of course, these matters are solely in the competence of His Beatitude, Metropolitan Herman. Other Bishops could, I believe, only be involved should His Beatitude choose to bring anything to their consideration.

Second, there is the matter of your personal disposition towards the Bishops, and towards the other Members of the Official Delegation. During the course of the celebrations, on the many occasions in which a word of public acknowledgement might have been made, there was no reference at all by you to any of us. For those in attendance, there was no indication at all of who or how many we were, and we might have come from Greece, for all they knew. As you know, the private persons of the Delegation participated at some considerable personal financial cost. To neglect them publicly, and also to have placed them at a great distance down the table at the Dinner seems insulting. On some other occasions, you did not approach the OCA bishops personally. One of these moments was at the time of our departure in the airport, at which time you correctly greeted and took the blessing of His Beatitude, and the Bishops of the Moscow Patriarchate, but you did not approach us, even though we were across the table from them, only bowed towards us. We would have been pleased to give a blessing at the time of our departure. I realise that you were under considerable stress over all this time, but this is nevertheless a glaring lacuna.

It was disappointing that you seemed in this context to treat the Bishops of the Delegation, Members of the Holy Synod, simply in a political manner. The Members of the Synod participated in this important celebration as the result of your invitation. Our hearts were, and probably still are, open towards you and to the Representation, and your work, but at the same time we were left feeling disappointed. This letter does not require a response, only a sharpening of your attention to important matters. As is said, love is shown in the details. May God grant you the strength to persevere in all that is good and good for the Church.

I remain, with belated blessings in Christ, yours,

the unworthy

+SERAPHIM
Bishop of Ottawa and Canada

C:\ Metropolitan HERMAN
